

Counselling

Have you experienced everyday racism and discrimination?

Based on your ethnicity or religious affiliation, your origin or skin colour...

- ... an apartment is not rented to you?
- ... your application is not considered?
- ... you are treated unfairly by authorities and institutions?
- ... you are belittled and treated disrespectfully?
- ... you are not served in stores or banks?

The Counselling Centre against Everyday Racism will gladly support you and help you:

- We inform you about your rights and advise you on possible courses of action.
- We organize talks to solve problems and accompany you if you wish for us to do so
- If needed, we will organize help from a specialist lawyer or refer you to one of our network partners.
- If you wish, we will make your case public (anonymously) in order to support you and draw the public's attention to it

Counselling is free of charge and multilingual - in case of communication difficulties, an interpreter will be organized. We guarantee confidential handling of the contents of the counselling and provide anonymous counselling upon request. We act independently of all state authorities and institutions and are partisan: We are on your side and support your perspective and interests.
